

That Woz the Day That Woz!

15th March 2009

Your local band Kindred Spirit put on a show that had the dance floor full from start to finish.

The fresh sounding songs were a change from the standards normally played by many bands.

Adding to the success of the event The Wild Frontier Square Dancers put on a great display. Jeff Seidel the 'Caller' rattled off instruction faster than a seasoned Auctioneer. How does he do it!

The fun really started when experienced square dancers grabbed partners from the audience and encouraged them to join in. See anyone you know?

In addition to good music and dancing, two artists joined in to provide performances which had people shouting... More! More!

Brendon Liley and Michael Craig... well done; we hope to see you back at our club again.

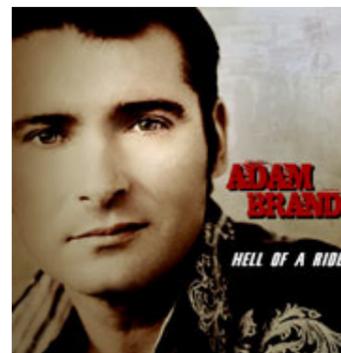

A great show with good entertainment, loads of talent.

Adam Brand – Hell Of A Ride

“The last 12 years have been the most amazing journey for me.

When I crossed the Nullarbor [from Perth], I had nothing but a dream and a bunch of songs. I jumped into a whole new world, and it’s been incredible — a whirlwind that’s taken me all over Australia, allowed me to make the music I love, and given me the privilege of performing to some of the most loyal and dedicated fans you’d find anywhere,” ...

Adam’s latest release is In Stores Now

Hank Locklin

Hank Locklin, one of the first country music artists to enjoy popularity among pop music fans, died Sunday at the age of

91. His song, “Please Help Me I’m Falling” reached No. 8 on the Billboard Top 100. Other hits included “Geisha Girl” and, more notably, Hank began recording in the 1950s. By the 1970s, new artists had passed him by. His final album was “By the Grace of God: The Gospel Album,” released in 2006.
