Hi Folks

Have you ever walked into a room with some purpose in mind, only to completely forget what that purpose was?

It turns out, that doors are to blame for these strange memory lapses.

Psychologists at the University of Notre Dame have discovered that passing through a doorway triggers what's known as an event boundary in the mind; separating one set of thoughts and memories from the next.

Your brain files away the thoughts you had in the previous room and prepares a blank slate for the new setting.

Thank goodness for studies like this.

It's not our age, it's that stupid door!

Opening up other doors....

A delegation from Tamworth has recently visited Nashville Tennessee to forge a sister-city deal with the historical home of country music.

Nashville is now one of the most significant songwriting, recording and publishing centres in the world, and the Australian delegation believe that a formal partnership can strengthen Tamworth's two-week music festival each January.
