President's Report for March and April 2025

Hello Members & Friends Our March show was fantastic with our best audience so far this year, we had Workin Overtime and Scott Dann as our Guest artist. It was his first time as a guest artist for a club show. He was great entertainment, wandering around though the tables and singing to different attendee's. A really Great day's entertainment.

Well done guys.

Moving onto our April show.

Numbers through the door were down a little but still reasonably good.

Eddie & Friends were our band for the day with Paul Walker as our guest artist. It was Paul's first time a guest artist and he played for our Monte Carlo, he enjoyed it with the stop start music. A Good days entertainment.

For our next show, we have Tru-Country with Malcolm Doyle as our Guest artist.

Memberships are due in May so to keep the club going please renew your Membership.

So until our May show.

Keep It Country Regards

President Keith Warren.

FIONA'S TUCKERBOX

MARCH SHOW.

What a cracker of a day! Matthew and I arrived very early to deep clean the kitchen before we started the preparation of food, and we continued our little hive of activity until after the show. With the massive amount of people that turned up this month, we were on the move, non-stop all day. Due to the additional attendance, we did run slightly behind schedule with the service of desserts as I had a lot more to tidy up before I could start desserts. But we got there in the end. I know I have mentioned it before but please remember there is absolutely no way of me knowing just how much food I need to buy each month and therefore it is impossible to know how many sandwiches I need to make. I know some of you missed out as they sold out in record time but unfortunately there is nothing I can do. If I make extra and they don't sell I am left to dispose of them and I refuse to waste food. Food is just too expensive these days to just throw away. I will always sell any left overs I have in take away containers at a reduced rate, but I would rather sell out than have left over food. Sadly I cannot take "presales" of sandwiches either. If I did it for one person I would then have to do it for everyone and that's just not manageable. There were a few comments being made in regards to the sandwiches that are kept in the refrigerator when we open the door to serve you. Those are the meals purchased by the Committee members. I always make sure they have their lunch provided and put aside as they are always working during the service times and as they volunteer their time to run and assist the club they get to keep their lunches aside until they are free to stop and eat it, and therefore they are not for sale. My only advice is to join the queue early to avoid disappointment.

APRIL SHOW.

Well, with the Easter long weekend and ANZAC day following only a few days later, it turned out to be an extremely busy few weeks for me. I had to juggle home life, work life and catering for the club life so I am certainly relieved that month is over. I have to work most public holidays so I didn't even have time to recharge. But never mind, we must continue moving forward. Having said that Matthew and I got through another service without our kids to help, as they had other commitments, but Bernie was a massive help taking your orders while we jumped in between all the other task. To say it was hectic is an understatement!

Next month (May) will be similar as they again have other things to do but hopefully all will be on board again in June. (including Victoria – who should be returning to us sometime in May.) Thank you for your patience and understanding.

Our family are very patriotic and believe in showing support to the ANZAC's.

Here we are in our ANZAC attire

LEST WE FORGET

They answered the call, with mighty hearts they took a stand, In pursuit of liberty, they died on foreign land.

Those that made it home, Carry a burden within their soul, more years behind them now, Yet stories remain untold.

We may never understand it, few hearts can comprehend, The courage one must possess, To rise and take a stand.

So I ask of you this, Dear friends and family, How will you remember, This most earnest legacy?

Will you bow your head in silence? Offer a silent prayer? Let's honour all they've sacrificed, For the freedoms we hold dear.

Author. Natalie Ducey

See you in May
