So Long, Jeff!

Today we're gathered to farewell a friend
Who battled his illness right to the end.
We've known he's been suffering for quite a while
But that didn't stop him from raising a smile
Or reminiscing or sharing a joke,
'Cos Jeff was a cheerful, likable bloke,
Who couldn't quite give up collecting old stuff,
'Cos he never quite worked out just what was enough,
But wherever he was he just knew in his head
That he'd have to store it in a dirty great shed.

He loved fixing motors on bikes, trikes and cars
And camping out in the bush 'neath the stars,
And haring around on that yellow Volks trike,
Or taking Gerry for a burn on his bike.
Then sometimes too, they'd just take off and roam
Round this wonderful land in their old motor-home.

He Dee-Jayed at many a show, dance or rally
In town or city or way out in the mallee.
He'd play all the tunes while the mob sang along,
And he'd do it for not much more than a song.
Yes, big-hearted Jeff was a kind, helpful lad,
And his early departure has left us all sad.
His suffering's now over but we'll always recall
One of the most generous blokes of all.

"Guzzi" Bob

Just a Thought From Bill Northcott!

Bill: I haven't slept a wink
for the past two nights.

Larry: Why's that Bill?

Bill: My next door neighbour broke her leg.
Her doctor put her leg in plaster and told her she shouldn't walk up steps.

Now you should hear the row she makes when she climbs up the drainpipe.
